Velvet's Father is WHO?

By: vanquish356

I'm so sorry for this story. Today was the day of the parent-teacher conference that Ozpin had called out of nowhere. Everyone was worried but also curious about why Ozpin had called this meeting. However, that all changed when the parents and the students discovered that Velvet's father was the Doom Slayer.

Velvet's Father is WHO?

Introduction

Velvet's Father is WHO?

Velvet's Father is WHO?

Velvet's Father is WHO!?

"Hey, bun-bun. What took you?" Coco Adel, leader of Team Cfvy, asked her partner as she arrived and sat next to her boyfriend, Jaune Arc, leader of Team Jnpr. Once she did, Jaune slid the tray containing that day's lunch to her. But unlike everyone else's trays, hers had a slice of red velvet cake courtesy of Jaune.

"I wanted to ask Professor Peach a few questions about the upcoming project. And I wanted to drop off my books at the dorm before coming here." Velvet answered as she and Jaune leaned into each other while holding each other's hands. "And how were everyone else's classes?"

"Boring." Yang and Ruby groaned as they struggled to stay awake.

"Let me guess. Professor Port." Yatsuhashi asked, chuckling.

"Yeah."

"What story did he tell this time?" Coco asked, glad she and her team no longer had his class. At least for this year, anyway.

"I think it was about the time he saved a village by using Dr. Oobleck's coffee mug and some pliers." Yang answered.

"Fox is saying he's so glad that we don't have to listen to his stories this year." Yatsuhashi said.

"Lucky." Blake muttered as she drank some strong coffee to try and stay awake.

"Can't wait for next year then." Weiss muttered under her breath before taking a sip of her tea.

"Aren't you used to boring teachers, Schnee?" Coco asked.

"I thought I was considering Atlas has some of the most stale teachers in all of Remnant. But Port sure proved me wrong on so many levels. I genuinely wonder if there is anyone who could stay awake during his stories."

"What about you guys?" Velvet asked Jaune, Pyrrha, Nora, and Ren.

"Mostly fine for Nora and me. Dr. Oobleck was in a good mood and gave us relatively light work for us." Ren answered.

"And Peach's class went well for Jaune and me. Nothing too challenging aside from a few out-of-nowhere questions." Pyrrha answered, smiling as Jaune and Velvet hugged each other.

"That's good." Coco said, happy that her bun-bun found someone she genuinely loved and genuinely loved her back.

"But now that classes are over." Yang said, getting everyone's attention. "How about we head to Vale to celebrate getting through another week at Beacon? Who's with me?"

"ME!" Nora and Ruby excitedly shouted, causing everyone else to chuckle. However, their mood came crashing down when Yatsuhashi reminded everyone of something that they had been dreading.

"As much as I would like to grab a drink, we can't. We have that parent-teacher conference in an hour with Glynda and Ozpin." He said, causing the air to become tense.

"Yeah." Jaune said, worried.

"Does anyone know why he called this meeting or what it's about?" Weiss asked, equally nervous.

"N-no. I-I-I. I don't think Ozpin told us." Coco stuttered.

"Yeah. I believe this had never happened before where the headmaster called a meeting with students' parents." Ren nervously added.

"H-hopefully, it's nothing bad." Ruby said, remembering how she promised her parents that she would try to avoid getting in trouble.

"Yeah." Pyrrha and Jaune said.

"When are our parents supposed to arrive?" Velvet asked.

"In about an hour and a half." Blake answered after checking the time on her scroll.

"So, uh. What should we do in the meantime?" Yang nervously asked, not looking forward to the meeting.

"Perhaps we can watch a movie." Nora suggested.

"That sounds nice." Velvet said, leaning into Jaune.

"Yeah. That's a good idea, especially considering our parents won't allow us to have any form of freedom after today." Coco said.

"Yeah. Let's do that." Everyone, minus Velvet, said as they cleaned up their space before getting up and heading to the lounge to enjoy their last moments of freedom.

One and A Half Hours Later

Outside Beacon

"Any minute now." Yatsuhashi nervously said as he kept his eyes trained on the horizon.

"And our lives will be over. Goodbye, fun times and freedom. We will miss you." Yang continued.

"You know. If this were any other situation, I would have made a joke about your relationship with the resident goofball of a night, bun-bun, considering we are about to meet our parents again. And that was that you're about to meet your future husband's parents, and he's about to meet yours." Coco said, earning a blush from Jaune and Velvet. However, while Jaune's blush quickly left because he remembered what his parents' arrival would entail, Velvet's blush remained. But she also became curious about how her father and uncles would react.

"How do you think your parents would react, Jaune?" Velvet asked.

"They would become ecstatic, to say the least. But don't worry, Velv. I know they will like you." Jaune answered with a smile. "What about your parents?"

"And how are you so calm that they are coming to Beacon?" Yang asked, curious as Velvet hadn't acted nervously, not even once, throughout the whole day.

"Well, it's just my father. But I'm sure he will like you, Jaune. So, don't worry." Velvet answered before turning to Yang. "But to answer your question, Yang. I don't see any reason to be nervous. Yes, we don't know why Ozpin called our parents and told them to come. But that doesn't mean it's for a bad reason or something we did. It could be for something good."

"Huh. She's right." Pyrrha said, realizing that she and everyone else had overreacted and jumped to conclusions.

"Yeah, Velvet's right. As far as I remember, none of us did anything that would warrant Ozpin calling our parents to come here. Well, nothing bad, to be specific." Yatsuhashi said.

"But if it is something bad, aren't you afraid of what your father might do?" Weiss asked, remembering the times her father punished her in a manner he deemed appropriate despite her offense being slightly off-pitch during her singing training.

"No, not really. My dad is very patient, reasonable, and understanding. If something was wrong or if I messed up, he wouldn't get angry. He would simply tell me what I did and work with me, so I didn't do it again." Velvet answered.

"Wow." Everyone said, surprised.

"Your dad sounds so chill." Yang said.

"Yeah. Does he ever get angry?" Ruby asked.

"A few times but never at me." Velvet answered.

"Honestly, now I'm kind of excited to meet your dad, bun-bun." Coco said.

"Looks like you won't have to wait for long. The bullheads have arrived." Ren said, getting everyone's attention. Turning toward where he was pointing, everyone saw that the bullheads their parents were on had indeed landed. But unlike how they were ten minutes ago, no one was nervous anymore. Instead, they were excited to see their parents again. Luckily, they didn't need to wait long, as only a few moments later, the parents were walking toward their respective children. However, while most of them started to catch up with their parents, Velvet remained by Jaune's side as she wanted to meet his parents. Although, now Velvet was wishing she didn't, considering she feared she might go blind from how many photos Mrs. Arc was taking of her and Jaune together.

"Aren't they sooo cute, dear?" Mrs. Arc cooed as she took another twenty photos.

"They are. I'm glad you're finally in a relationship, son." Mr. Arc said, suppressing a laugh.

"Thanks, dad." Jaune struggled to say as his mother arranged him and Velvet into a new position for another photo.

"And let's not forget about you, Velvet. Thank you so much for taking an interest in our son. We were afraid he might end up alone. But we're glad he ended up with such a sweet and cute girl like yourself." Mrs. Arc said as she continued taking photos.

"You're welcome, Mrs. Arc." Velvet said, now seeing lights that weren't from Mrs. Arc's camera.

"Oh, please, dear. Call me, Jade. Or if you want, mom. You are going to be my future daughter-in-law. A mother can always tell, especially after helping five of her other children with their relationships."

"A-a-alright, Jade." Velvet blushed as she was not expecting that.

"Alright, dear. That's enough. We don't want them to lose their sight." Mr. Arc said, chuckling as he stopped his wife from taking any more photos.

"Fine." Mrs. Arc huffed as she put away her camera.

"So, son. Do you know why Ozpin called us and asked us to come?" Mr. Arc asked, curious.

"Uh, no. None of us do. Ozpin only sent us a message saying there will be a parent-teacher conference today." Jaune answered.

"Typical Ozpin." Winter Schnee sighed in frustration.

"Couldn't even bother to tell us what this meeting is about." Raven Branwen muttered.

"Oh, come on, Ray. Sure, he could have told us why. But you have to admit this was the perfect opportunity to see our kids again." Summer said with her ever-present smile on her face.

"I guess."

"Oh, come on, everyone. This is supposed to be a happy time. We're seeing our kids again." An Ren said as she and her husband caught up with their son.

"An's right. We should be glad to see our kids again and know they are safe." Willow Schnee said.

"Not to mention glad that they made even more friends." Athena said as she hugged Pyrrha.

"While I'm glad we get to see our children again, I would still have appreciated it if someone told us what this meeting is about." Cherry Adel said, slightly annoyed. And just like her daughter, she wore highly fashionable clothes and had a purse that was likely her weapon of choice.

"I agree. But if you come with me, I'll take you all to Ozpin, where he can explain why he called all of you." Another voice answered. Turning to it, everyone saw Glynda Goodwitch walking toward them with a warm but stern smile.

"Good to see you, Glynda." Taiyang said, happy to see his old friend.

"Good to see you too, Taiyang." Glynda said before noticing a distinct lack of alcoholic smell. "Is Qrow here?"

"Hopefully not." Winter muttered before Willow gently nudged her elbow.

"He's at home." Raven answered.

"Yes. Unfortunately, Qrow wasn't feeling that well as he came down with a nasty cold. So, he's bedridden for the next week until he gets better." Summer explained.

"Hopefully, Qrow gets better soon." Glynda said, secretly glad she didn't have to deal with Qrow's alcoholic stench.

"If you want, my husband and I can take a quick detour to your home and give Mr. Qrow a quick check-up." Nora's mother offered.

"We even have some of our equipment with us." Nora's father added, lifting his medical bag.

"We would appreciate it." Summer said, smiling.

"Where is Ozpin, anyway?" Yatsuhashi's father asked.

"In his office. Follow me." Glynda answered before motioning for everyone to follow her. But as everyone followed the headmistress, the feeling of trepidation returned with a vengeance to the students. While Velvet's words and reasoning did calm them down, they were now having second thoughts. Well, all except Velvet and Jaune, as Jaune's parents kept gushing over them.

Ten Minutes Later

"Ah, everyone is here. Now we can get started." Ozpin said as Glynda led everyone into the room.

"Good to see you too, Ozpin." Raven growled.

"Why did you call us on such short notice, Oz?" Taiyang asked.

"Especially since we all would have appreciated a notice of any kind." Winter added with a glare.

"Yes. While we would gladly jump at any chance to see our daughter, we also would have appreciated some notice at least a few days in advance. We are doctors, after all." Nora's father said, slightly irked.

"Thankfully, we had some people to cover us." Nora's mother added.

"Right. I do apologize." Ozpin said before taking a sip of his coffee. "But to answer your question, Taiyang. The reason I called you all is because something-"

"Wait." Fox's mother said, cutting Ozpin off.

"Yes?" Glynda asked with a light glare.

"I don't think everyone is here."

"What do you mean? Everyone is here." Ozpin asked, confused.

"Not everyone."

"Who's missing then?"

"The rabbit faunus's parents."

"She's right." Coco said, with her and her mother glaring at Fox's mother. "Where's your father, bun-bun?"

"Oh. He should be here soon. He has his own way of traveling." Velvet answered.

"Should we wait for him? I would like to meet with him soon." Mrs. Arc said, trying her best to remain calm. But everyone could tell why she wanted to meet with Velvet's father.

"As much as I would like to get this meeting on the way, it would be best if we wait for him." Winter said, annoyed.

"How about the rest of you? Do you think we should-" Ozpin began before stopping when his scroll that he placed on his desk started ringing. "Excuse me. Hello?"

'Ozpin.' The Voice of Ironwood said.

"Ironwood. Good to hear from you. What's with the sudden call?"

'Ozpin. This isn't a courtesy call. Something is happening!'

"What happened or what's happening?" Ozpin asked, becoming serious when he realized how distraught Ironwood sounded.

'We have detected some foreign energy readings, and they are through the roof. We can't make heads or tails of them.'

"What should we do, Ironwood? Should we lock down the school and go on high alert?" Ozpin asked, his mind racing with possibilities on how to proceed.

'That's the thing. It's coming from Beacon. More specifically, the energy readings are originating from your office.' And no sooner than Ironwood said this, a massive bright blue portal appeared behind the students and their parents.

"Um. We'll call you back." Ozpin said before ending the call.

"Uh. Should we do something?" Ruby asked, unsure what to do since this had never happened before. However, before anyone could answer, a hulking figure wearing strange armor walked out of the portal. And the menacing aura emanating from the behemoth sent chills down everyone's spines. And when the figure's gaze shifted toward them, some of the students and parents felt like passing out while the rest huddled closer together.

"Who are you?" Glynda asked, gripping her wand tightly as she struggled to maintain her composure. There was something off about this figure that greatly unnerved her. And after nearly a decade of working in the field as a huntress, Glynda learned to trust her gut and instincts. And right now, they are screaming at her that this is a fight she could not win.

"And how did you get here?" Raven asked as she and a few others readied their weapons to defend their kids in case the figure turned out to be hostile. However, to everyone's pure shock, Velvet did something no one expected.

"DAD! YOU'RE HERE!" She shouted as she ran up to hug the mysterious figure.

"Ms. Scarlatina, don-" Ozpin began but stopped when the figure hugged Velvet with one arm while gently petting her head with its other hand.

"I missed you, dad. I'm glad you're here." Velvet said, happy to see her father again.

"Uh, Bun-Bun. Care to explain what's going on and who this is?" Coco asked, torn between being confused and getting her best friend away from the figure.

"Right. This my dad." Velvet said, turning around as the figure nodded its head.

"Your father?" Mrs. Arc asked, scared and shocked.

"No offense, Ms. Scarlatina. But uh, we don't-"

'Believe you. An understandable reaction.' Another voice said, startling everyone except Velvet and the Doom Slayer.

"Who said that?" Winter asked, looking around the room.

'Pardon my intrusion. It was not my intention to scare anyone. Allow me to introduce myself. I am Vega. An artificial intelligence and one of the two personal assistants to the Doom Slayer. Or as you currently know him, Velvet Scarlatina's father.' Vega said, his voice coming from the Doom Slayer's helmet.

"Hey, Vega. How are you?" Velvet asked.

'I am fine, Velvet. Your father and I would like to know how you are.'

"I'm great. And my time at Beacon has been great too." Velvet answered before noticing something. "Oh. Where's Hayden?"

'Dr. Hayden is back home finishing up some paperwork. He should arrive momentarily.'

"Has dad and him been getting along?"

"About as well as you can expect when working with a freak of nature, Ms. Scarlatina." Another voice answered, sounding annoyed.

"Hayden!" Velvet said, smiling.

'Dr. Hayden. We were not expecting you for another thirty minutes. Did something happen?' Vega asked.

"Nothing happened, Vega. I merely finished going over the reports faster than I anticipated." Hayden explained.

'That's good.'

"Uh, are they all your family?" Willow asked, unsure what to do or how to act. Granted, that could be because of the menacing aura the figure was still emitting.

"Yes. Vega is my godfather, and Hayden is my uncle, despite both being artificial intelligence." Velvet answered.

"Is this true?" Ozpin asked, curious as this was undoubtedly a first for him. The Doom Slayer looked toward Velvet with what the others presumed was with a smile before turning back to Ozpin and nodding.

"What a strange family." Fox's mother whispered, with Raven nodding, but both went stiff when the Doom Sayer glared at them with immense ferocity.

"Either way." Hayden said, and even though he didn't have a body, everyone could tell he was glaring at Raven and Fox's mother. "We are still waiting for you to explain why you called us here."

"Right." Ozpin said before clearing his throat. "Ms. Scarlatina. Take a seat, and we can get started."

"If you don't mind, headmaster, I would like to-EEP!" Velvet began before yelping when the Doom Slayer suddenly picked her up and placed her on his shoulders. But once Velvet realized what had happened, she calmed down and smiled.

"That would do as well." Ozpin said, not wanting to upset Velvet's father. While he had seen and fought his fair share of challenging things, his senses were screaming at him not to challenge or argue with Velvet's father. "Anyway. Let's begin."

One Hour Later

"And that is why we ask all of you to come. We need permission and consent from living relatives before we can begin." Ozpin finished.

"Wow." Taiyang and Summer said, shocked. Even Raven, who was almost always neutral or dismissive of things, wore a shocked expression.

"I can see why you called us here now." Nora's mother said.

"Yeah." Nora's father agreed.

"Now I'm glad you called us." An Ren said as her husband kept mulling over Ozpin's words.

"Out of everything I thought this meeting would be about, this was the last thing I was expecting." Ghira Belladonna said.

"Yeah." Kali said as she grabbed her daughter's shoulders.

"I know the children were special and would do great things in their life, but even I didn't expect this." Mr. Arc said, astonished at what his son managed to achieve despite having no prior training.

"But to be trained by the four maidens is something so few have ever achieved." Willow said, shocked but also happy for Weiss.

"A feat none of us expected." Coco's mother said, speechless.

"But a feat nonetheless. One that we should be happy the children achieved." Hayden said, sounding bored. Probably because he became used to insane feats while he helped the Doom Slayer during his crusade.

'Congratulations, Velvet. We are proud of you and your hard work.' Vega said with the Doom Slayer nodding while patting her head.

"Thanks, guys." Velvet said, smiling.

"But now that we are on the subject of our kids' performance. How are their grades for the rest of their subjects?" Athena asked, with the other parents nodding, including the Doom Slayer.

"Well. I'm glad to say that all of your children have excellent grades. Mr. Arc, Ms. Schnee, and Ms. Scarlatina especially. Mr. Arc in leadership and tactics classes, Ms. Schnee for Dust classes, and Ms. Scarlatina for all classes regarding the Grimm." Ozpin answered.

"THAT'S MY BOY!" Mr. Arc shouted before enveloping his son in a tight embrace.

"Thanks, dad." Jaune said, happy that he made his parents proud.

"Excellent work, Weiss." Willow said, smiling.

"Indeed." Winter agreed, letting out a rare smile.

'Outstanding work, Velvet.' Vega said with the Doom Slayer nodding.

"Indeed. Learning as much as you can about your enemies is the most crucial step to defeat them." Hayden said before adding. "Unless you're this guy."

"Thanks, guys." Velvet said with a blush.

"But now that this is done. Is there anything else we need to go over, or is that it?" Yatsuhashi's father asked.

"No. I believe that is it." Ozpin answered.

"Very well." Winter said, impatient to return to her work despite enjoying seeing her sister again.

"It was a pleasure to see you again, Oz." Taiyang said, shaking Ozpin's hand.

"Same here, Taiyang." Ozpin said. "But before you, all leave. Would you all like to stop by the cafeteria to grab something to eat?"

"Sure. Why not?" Nora's mother answered.

"It was a long trip, and we didn't have anything to eat all day." Coco's mother added.

"And it would allow us to spend some more time with our children." Summer added.

"And to catch up on some things that happened while they were away, like family events or the latest fashion trends." Coco's mother said, showing where Coco's sense and love of fashion came from.

"In that case, follow me." Glynda said, smiling.

"With all of us together, we don't have to worry about anyone harassing Velvet." Yatsuhashi said as everyone got up from their seats. However, as soon as he said this, immeasurable anger and rage filled the room, making everyone sweat in trepidation.

"You said someone was harassing Velvet?" Hayden asked as the Doom Slayer placed Velvet on the floor.

"Uh oh." Velvet said, knowing where this was going as the Doom Slayer took out his super shotgun.

"Uh, yes. Some group of Anti-Faunus students picks on her all the time." Yatsuhashi answered.

"But the ones that used to do it the most was Team Crdl." Coco added.

"But we-" Ozpin began but fell silent when the Doom Slayer glared at him while loading two fresh shells into the shotgun's chambers.

"The Slayer just wants to talk with them." Hayden said.

"Sir. You can't-" Glynda began, but Vega cut her off.

'The Slayer just wants to talk with them.'

"But, dad. Please don't hurt them. They stopped." Velvet said, hoping to dissuade her father.

'Relax, Velvet. Your father just wants to talk with them.' Vega said, and, despite typically carrying a neutral voice, he sounded protective at the moment.

"But, dad. This is ridiculous."

"She's right." Winter said, her hand on her weapon.

"They're just kids. There are better options to deal with situations like this. After all, you can't just shoot a hole into a kid." Kali said.

"And this is why telling the Slayer he can't do something has the opposite effect. He just updated his objectives to shoot a hole into his daughter's bullies." Hayden said as the Slayer opened the door and left the room to hunt down his daughter's bullies.

"We have to do something. We can't just let him kill some kids." An Ren said. Feeling her scroll ring, Velvet took it out and noticed that Hayden was now using it to continue communicating with them.

"Unless you want your children to become orphans, I highly suggest you don't get in the Doom Slayer's way. The last time someone did, they ended up in a full body cast." Hayden warned before letting out an exasperated sigh.

"We can't just do nothing." Glynda said, adjusting her grip on her wand.

"I was getting to that since there is a better option than simply running at him. Vega."

'Yes, Dr. Hayden?' Vega asked.

"The Slayer is more likely to listen to you. Go and see if you can calm him down."

'At once, Dr. Hayden.' Vega said before leaving.

"Can he, Velvet?" Jaune asked.

"Eh, sometimes. When my father sets his sights on something, it's very hard to get him to focus on anything else."

"Hopefully, he can. But just to be sure." Ozpin said before turning to Glynda. "Glynda."

"Yes, headmaster?" Glynda asked.

"Go inform Professor Peach and the other nurses about this and ensure the med bays are properly stocked." Nodding, Glynda excused herself before exiting the room.

"I think we are all in agreement not to argue with Velvet again. Not that we ever did." Yatsuhashi said.

"Yes." Everyone said.

"So, what now?" Pyrrha asked.

"Part of me wants to say and see how this plays out. But the other part is telling me to take Jaune and bring him back home, so he doesn't get hurt." Mrs. Arc answered.

"I feel the same." Raven said, surprising everyone.

"Wait. I just realized something." Yang said, getting everyone's attention.

"What is it, Yang?" Blake asked.

"If Velvet's father is this overprotective of her."

"Go on." Weiss said.

"What will he do once he learns that Jaune is dating Velvet?" Yang asked, causing the three teams and some of their parents to go wide-eyed.

"Uh. Now I'm scared for Jaune." Ruby said, with some of the parents agreeing.

"Wait. You're dating someone, Velvet?" Hayden asked, sounding surprised.

"Yes. I'm dating Jaune Arc." Velvet answered as she grabbed Jaune's hand and gave a gentle squeeze, with all his fears vanishing in an instant.

"Hmm. Jaune Arc. Son of Jade and John Arc and brother to seven sisters. No official training outside of his parents and has mediocre combat skills. Education level is on par with most others, and grades are above average, with battle tactics being his best class. No criminal records or misdemeanors of any kind. Overall, average person with above average smarts." Hayden said, surprising everyone.

"How do you know all that?" Ozpin asked, worried.

"All it takes to discover something is the will to look for it. It is not that hard. I would have expected you to know that."

"Average does seem right." Raven said, earning an elbow from Summer and Taiyang.

"But he does have a big heart." Velvet said, smiling before kissing Jaune on his cheek.

"How so?" Willow asked, curious.

"Remember how we said Team Crdl used to bully Velvet?" Coco asked.

"Yes." Fox's mother said.

"Well, it was Arc who stopped Team Crdl and other students from bullying Velvet."

"Really?" Kali asked, hopeful.

"Yup." Coco answered with a rare, warm smile.

"What about other faunus students?" Summer asked.

"The same thing. He helped most of the faunus students and got some of the bullies to stop harassing them." Yatsuhashi answered. "In fact, Jaune standing up for Velvet is how our teams became friends."

"Always nice to see people like him." Ghira said.

"This world could always use more people like him." Kali agreed.

"I just did what was right. No one deserves to be bullied for who they are." Jaune said, earning a smile from everyone.

"But there are still others that still harass other faunus students." Hayden said.

"Unfortunately." Blake answered.

"That's why Yatsuhashi said what he said." Yang added. "With all of us together, none of them would even dare come close."

"Well. It seems like you chose wisely, Velvet. But ultimately, it's up to your father." Hayden said.

"Which is why some of us are scared for Jaune." Pyrrha said.

"Don't worry. While the Doom Slayer is a brute, to say the least, he is not unreasonable. He is just protective of his daughter."

"Which reminds me." Winter said. "Is this Doom Slayer your biological or adoptive father, Ms. Scarlatina?"

"Adoptive." Velvet answered.

"How sweet. Always nice seeing someone adopt a faunus from a shelter to give them a loving family and not for other reasons like in Atlas." Kali said, earning a glare from Winter and Willow for singling out their home kingdom. But they didn't say anything as they knew it was true.

"Uh. That is not how it went." Hayden said, surprising everyone.

"How did Velvet's father adopt her then?" Ozpin asked, curious.

"After achieving his goals, The Slayer decided to settle down somewhere where he could be alone. At one point, while he was looking for supplies in Mistral, he heard a light snoring that didn't come from one of the nearby homes. The Slayer decided to investigate and found a baby Velvet sleeping in a basket next to a dumpster with all the supplies one would need to care for her."

"But that wouldn't necessarily mean someone abandoned her, right?" Weiss asked.

"In some cases, no. But there was a note attached to her arm by a ribbon. A group of Anti-Faunus scum were chasing Velvet's last living relatives down. For what reason, we still do not know. After reading the letter, the Slayer decided to adopt her."

"Do you know who those scum were?" Raven asked.

"Yes. But if you're looking to kill them, then don't bother. The Slayer already placed them six feet under."

"Good. The less of those kinds of people in this world, the better." Taiyang said.

"Well. This was certainly an enlightening meeting, to say the least." Ozpin said, clearing his throat.

"It was." Everyone agreed.

"Would you all like to grab-" Ozpin began, but the sound of a loud crashing cut him off.

"Well, it seems like my dad found Team Crdl. And it seems like Vega managed to calm him down enough." Velvet said as the sounds of something hitting the ground hard greeted their ears.

"He doesn't hold back, does he?" Yatsuhashi's father asked with a wince.

"Oh, that is him holding back. I would say he was holding back about 99 percent." Velvet said, surprising everyone.

"What if he went all out?" Coco's mother asked.

"There wouldn't be anything left. And everything within a five-mile radius wouldn't exist." Hayden answered.

"I can imagine." Summer said, looking out the window and seeing Professor Peach and some nurses tending to Team Crdl.

"But as I was saying. Would you all still like to eat something before leaving?" Ozpin asked. Everyone nodded as they were too stunned to say anything.

One Hour Later

"It was great to see you again, dear." Mrs. Arc said as the parents said their goodbyes to their children.

"It was great seeing you again, mom and dad." Jaune said.

"And it was nice meeting you, Velvet."

"It was nice to see you too, Jade." Velvet said, earning a smile from Mrs. Arc.

"We better see you two for the holidays." Mrs. Arc warned with a smile that sent shivers down Jaune's spine.

"Bye, you two." Mr. Arc said as he and Mrs. Arc boarded the bullhead.

"Your parents are nice, Jaune." Velvet said.

"Yeah." Jaune agreed as he held Velvet's hand. However, he went nearly stiff as a board when a shadow loomed over him.

"Hey, dad." Velvet said, smiling as she moved to hug the Doom Slayer. But while he returned the hug, the Slayer's gaze never left Jaune.

"Uh, hello, Velvet's father." Jaune nervously said as he struggled to maintain his composure.

'The Slayer is asking if you are the one who captured his daughter's heart.' Vega said.

"Yes, sir. You could put it that way." Jaune answered, trying his best not to shrink under the Slayer's gaze as he looked at him up and down. But he calmed down when the Slayer nodded.

'The Slayer is saying you seem like a good kid. And your files would support that. So he is allowing you to continue dating his daughter. But make no mistake, Mr. Arc. If you even think about hurting his daughter, you won't live to see the next day. And your death will be more painful than you could ever imagine.'

"I won't ever hurt, Velvet." Jaune said, surprising himself at his sudden burst of confidence.

'Good.' Vega said as the Slayer nodded before turning to Velvet and placing a hand on her shoulder. 'Take care, Velvet. We will contact you soon, at the latest, tomorrow afternoon.'

"Okay. It was good to see you, dad. And you too, Hayden and Vega." Velvet said.

'It was nice seeing you again, Velvet.' Vega said with the Doom Slayer nodding.

"Take care." Hayden said as another portal opened nearby. Nodding, Velvet and the Doom Slayer shared one last hug before the Doom Slayer entered the portal, with it closing a second later.

"Your father is something, Velvet." Blake said as the bullheads left.

"He sure is." Velvet agreed.

"And we're not just saying they because of what he did to Team Crdl." Ren said.

"Even though they deserved it." Nora added.

"So, lover boy." Yang said with a mischievous smirk. "Did Velvet's father allow you to continue dating his daughter?"

"Yes, Yang. He allowed us to continue dating." Jaune answered, already knowing where Yang was going. And they were right as

Yang kept on making a few puns as they returned to their dorms. Yet, as they walked through the halls, they couldn't help but overhear the rumors other students were sharing that Velvet's father was the one that put Team Crdl in the intensive care unit.

Notes: Again, sorry for this and it's not to be taken seriously.
